Spring Forward with Bigfoot

As we roll out of our 6-year anniversary and into the spring season, we're not slowing down—we're picking up momentum.

Spring in the Pacific Northwest means longer days, busier jobsites, and crews getting after it. It's also a reminder that growth doesn't stop—and neither do we.

Spring Jobsite Ready – PPE & Essentials

With warmer weather comes new jobsite conditions. Staying safe, comfortable, and efficient is key as crews ramp up production.

We've got you covered with stocked PPE and jobsite essentials:

Gloves

- Cut-resistant, impact, and general-purpose options
- Built for durability, comfort, and all-day wear

Safety Glasses

- Anti-fog, scratch-resistant lenses
- Clear, tinted, and polarized options for changing conditions

High-Visibility Vests

- Lightweight, breathable materials for warmer temps
- ANSI-compliant options for every jobsite requirement

Fall Protection

- Harnesses, lanyards, and full fall protection systems
- Reliable gear that keeps crews safe at height

Hydration & Cooling

- Bottled and 5-gallon jug water service available
- Cooling towels & cold rags to beat the heat
- Stay ahead of rising temps and keep crews productive

When the weather heats up, the right gear makes all the difference. Let us help you get your crews dialed in.

Bigfoot Work Anniversaries

Riley Woodard (5yrs)

Riley Woodard, Inside Sales team - brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to the Bigfoot team, with a background rooted in warehouse operations and inside sales. He's someone everyone—both customers and teammates—can rely on for product insight and dependable service.

Customers trust Riley to not only get them what they need, but to make sure they're set up for success on the job. Around the shop, he's known for his positive energy and sense of humor—always keeping things light while getting the job done.

This past year has also been a big one personally, as Riley became a father. His son Tyson turns one at the end of next month.

Mark Stoneback (3yrs)

Mark Stoneback, Kent Branch Manager - also known as "Bones," is the backbone of our Kent operation.

With years of industry experience, Mark leads by example—first in the door, last to leave, and always ready to step in wherever needed. Whether he's prepping the delivery trucks in the morning, writing up orders, or helping track down product, rest assured, Mark is working. His selfless approach and leadership have played a major role in expanding our presence across the south end.

He's someone the entire team counts on, and his steady, calm demeanor keeps things running smoothly—even on the busiest days. And when the moment's right, he'll have you laughing just as hard as he works.

Boots on the Ground

Our Outside Sales team recently had the opportunity to attend the grand opening of McKinstry's Kent Tool Shop—and it was a great chance to connect face-to-face with the people actually using the products on the job.

Events like this give us the opportunity to talk through the brands we carry, answer real-time questions, and make sure end users know exactly what Bigfoot Construction Supply can bring to the table.

At the end of the day, we're not just behind a counter—we're out there with you. We take pride in being boots on the ground, gritty, and hardworking—just like the customers we serve. Whether it's on a jobsite, at an event, or in the shop, we're always looking for ways to show up and support.
